THE VERY BEST OF LAND AND SEA

2027

Letter from Our Chairmen

A&K pioneered the first modern luxury safari back in 1962. From that moment onward, we have remained true to our founding principle: that adventure and extravagance can go hand in hand. It is with this core belief at the forefront that we proudly announce the first full portfolio of A&K x Crystal Cruises. These 10 new voyages embody the very best of A&K and Crystal — the very best of land and sea.

On land, A&K kicks off every voyage with a revealing pre-cruise stay in your port of embarkation. In true A&K style, your hotel, excursions and transfers are all seen to with the utmost attention to detail. Throughout your cruise, expertly led shore excursions explore destinations spanning Europe, the Mediterranean, Asia and North America, each adventure rich in the insider access moments that have made us the world leader in luxury travel.

At sea, our party of 60 A&K guests joins Crystal voyages aboard one of two beautifully refurbished ships — Symphony or Serenity — to experience our sister brand's award-winning service, dining, amenities and entertainment. Once on board, your butler greets you by name, the attentive staff knows your favorite drink, the ship is your five-star resort, and your exclusively reserved suite your sanctuary.

Tying it all together, A&K's renowned Expedition Team is there every step of the way. From your pre-cruise stay to the moment you disembark, the team enriches your voyage with its wealth of expertise, exclusive VIP events and riveting presentations exploring everything from archaeology to photography.

Whether you look forward to sampling the fine wines of an exclusive Bordeaux estate, sharing a sunrise meditation with Buddhist monks in Bangkok, diving deeper into your interests with the Expedition Team, or dining in the only Nobu restaurant on the water, we invite you to experience the very best of land and sea with an A&K x Crystal Cruise in 2027.

AN UNRIVALED ONBOARD EXPERIENCE

A&K cruises have always blazed a trail when it comes to the quality and innovation of our unique shore excursions and insider-access experiences. Now, with our sister company Crystal, we are taking the onboard experience even further.

Crystal has been the watchword for exceptional cruises for over three decades. Refurbished and relaunched in 2023, flagships Crystal Serenity and Crystal Symphony are the most elegant at sea and offer more space per passenger than most cruise lines, plus one of the highest crew-to-guest ratios in the industry. From the moment you step on board one of Crystal's ships, you will be welcomed like family but treated like royalty.

AWARD-WINNING SERVICE
Over the last 35 years, Crystal has developed a unique, intuitive style of service that is warm, welcoming, attentive and exacting. With an industry-leading guest-to-crew ratio of almost 1:1, plus personal butler service in all rooms, the longstanding, familial crew greet you by name and anticipate your every nuanced wish, providing the most instinctive service with genuine passion.

EXCEPTIONAL FOOD AND DRINK
A voyage with Crystal is a gourmet experience in itself. Like a well-heeled neighborhood, each ship has nine dining options, and first-time guests are always wowed by the variety and quality of cuisines, flavors and menus created by award-winning chefs trained in the world's best restaurants (see overleaf for the full range of venues and dining choices).

BEAUTIFUL SUITES AND INTERIORS
Every Sapphire and Aquamarine Veranda Suite, exclusively reserved for A&K guests, is attended by a personal butler and features beds dressed in sumptuous bedlinen by Jesurum 1870, spacious bathrooms with Etro and Ortigia products, and walk-in closets. Sea-view verandas (in all suites) and light-filled living areas (in Sapphire suites) maximize the sense of space.

ULTRA ALL-INCLUSIVE VOYAGES
On Crystal ships — and on all A&K cruises — all-inclusive means just that: everything is complimentary, from start to finish. Not just buffet breakfasts but tasting menus with wine pairings; à la carte dishes of local, seasonal produce; fresh patisserie at afternoon tea; premium wines, and spirits any time of day. We've even taken care of tipping, so you don't have to think about it.

ENDLESS DIVERSIONS
The chic Seahorse Pool and terrace is the outdoor hub of the ship. On the top deck are padel and pickleball courts, golf pods for practicing your swing, a fitness center and the Aurōra spa. Entertainment and activities take place round the clock: recitals by classical music stars, TED-style talks by high-profile speakers from astronauts to scientists, and classes including photography, Pilates, bridge, computing, arts and crafts, and ballroom dancing. In the evening, catch dazzling shows by Broadway producers, concerts by disco legends, stand-up comedy, and movies.

Right: Crystal's award-winning staff anticipates your every request

WHAT'S ON THE MENU

A&K guests are spoiled for choice when it comes to world-class dining options. Specialty restaurants include chef Nobu Matsuhisa's only restaurant at sea, the sole ocean outpost of global sensation Beefbar, and a wildly popular Italian venue created by the Alajmo brothers of Michelin-star fame. There's a superb buffet restaurant with an outdoor terrace and a dizzying array of mouthwatering dishes, made from the freshest ingredients sourced locally in many ports of call; plus a fine-dining hotspot with a different menu every night. Other options include a gelato bar and an all-day poolside grill; a bistro and a private-dining room; and the Palm Court lounge serving afternoon tea and evening cocktails with a captain's-eye view of the ocean.

Then there are the late-night piano bars with quiet corners, cocktail and champagne bars with live music and sociable counter seating, and personable wait staff to make your new favorite drink.

These are just a few of the highlights of Crystal's specialty restaurants:

BEEFBAR
Having established his fashionable steakhouses in some of the world's most cosmopolitan neighborhoods, Monaco restaurateur Riccardo Giraudi brings his special brand of culinary flair to Crystal with the first ever Beefbar at sea. High-quality meats and seafood and exciting flavors from the global street-food scene come together in dynamic dishes such as Kobe beef bao buns, crab tacos, and wagyu fajitas, served beside floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking the ocean.

UMI UMA®
When international superstar chef Nobu Matsuhisa launched his Umi Uma restaurant with Crystal in 2008, he pioneered a new concept: Michelin-star-quality destination dining on board cruise ships. Umi Uma showcases the chef's signature Japanese-Peruvian dishes, from the freshest and most exquisitely presented sashimi and lobster tempura to his famous Nobu-style miso black cod.

OSTERIA D'OVIDIO
Named after our Executive Chairman, Manfredi Lefebvre d'Ovidio, this innovative Italian osteria is a collaboration with the Alajmo brothers, whose restaurants hold a total of five Michelin stars between them. The interior is beautiful and the food showstopping — whether reimagined Italian classics or dishes from the brothers' three-Michelin-starred restaurant Le Calandre. Stand-out dishes include smoked tuna carpaccio, truffle beef tartare and burrata ravioli with seafood.

WATERSIDE RESTAURANT
Smart, buzzy and welcoming, Waterside is where the art of fine dining is elevated to new heights. Creative, intricate dishes of seasonal ingredients pack a flavorful punch, on an à la carte dinner menu that spans contemporary and traditional and changes daily. Sommeliers roam the floor, topping up your glass with wines to match every course.

MARKETPLACE
Crystal's only restaurant with an outdoor dining terrace, bright and breezy Marketplace serves the ultimate gourmet buffet every day at both breakfast and lunch: an array of delicious breads, pastries and puddings; sushi and seafood; flavor-packed salads and worldwide cuisines from Californian to Vietnamese.

THE CALL OF THE SEA

Romantic ports of call unfurl like a string of pearls as your luxurious ship conveys you in high style between islands, coastal cities, countries and even continents

Travelling by ship brings a fresh perspective on the world. At sea, shape-shifting slivers of land on the horizon gain color, shape and depth like a developing photo as you near your port of call. A flock of gulls off La Rochelle or a pod of dolphins as you set a course from Valletta to Tunis make you feel at one with nature in ways not possible on a plane.

Their progress seems effortless — as does yours, as the ship conveys you between islands, countries or continents, docking in cities whose names you scarcely recognize: Sept-Îles, Baie-Comeau, Saguenay. Settle into the rhythm of life on board as you lean on a handrail up on deck, watching one harbor vanish in your wake and imagining the next beyond your bow wave. Savoring the sea breeze, you have never felt freer.

Then there is the romance. Not of the dating kind, but of storied locations unfurling like a necklace of pearls: Milos, Kalamata, Corfu, Kotor and Dubrovnik on our Ancient Greece and the Adriatic voyage. More thrilling than the anticipation is your arrival in these evocative landfalls. What can beat gliding into a sun-drenched harbor with pine-clad hills and classical ruins as a backdrop?

Ashore, A&K's guides and experts shed light on centuries of history and roll out one-of-a-kind experiences. Whether it's reflecting on the D-Day legacy of Omaha Beach, gaining exclusive access to the Prince's Palace of Monaco, sharing the secrets of the perfect Valencian paella, going behind the scenes in a Venetian gondola workshop, or simply finding the perfect stretch of powder-sand beach on the remote shores of Ko Kut, your guides and Expedition Team make each destination shine its brightest.

At sea, the Broadway-style shows, gourmet dining and level of service are just as dazzling. Dinner every night is taken care of, in a choice of top-notch restaurants. If you're sociable, company is guaranteed, whether it is new friends with shared interests, crew who make hospitality an art, or your Expedition Team who are always on hand to discuss the next port of call. If you're craving a night to yourself, you can retreat to your elegant suite — with a balcony and a cinematic sea view.

It's the best of both worlds — and the adventure begins here.

DAY 1

ARRIVE ATHENS, GREECE

CRADLE OF WESTERN CIVILIZATION

The seed of Western civilization is a chaotic tangle of busy streets and bougainvillea-fringed squares, a romantic litany of ruins and relics. It is no stranger to reinvention: factories are now chic hotels, historic sites a showcase for high-end fashion. But Athens is always poised to offer an education in the classics — turn the corner and you might just stumble across a time-worn temple or amphitheater.

King George (2 days)

DAY 2

ATHENS

ANCIENT WONDERS AND A TIMELESS WAY OF LIFE

Dive into Athens' ancient history at the Parthenon and other Hellenistic ruins of the Acropolis. Or, embrace the deliberate pace of the Plaka, one of Athens' most atmospheric neighborhoods, as you sample souvlaki and sip ouzo on a laidback culinary tour. Alternatively, drive through the Peloponnese to the Argolis region, pausing at the Corinth Canal, Cyclopean Walls, Lion's Gate, Royal Tombs, Treasury of Atreus and Epidaurus' ancient theater. DAY 4

MILOS

APHRODITE CASTS HER SPELL

Here, in 1820, a humble farmer digging at the foot of an ancient city wall unearthed what would later be known as the Venus de Milo. Today, it seems the subject of this sculpture — the Greek goddess of love, beauty and pleasure — still casts her ancient spell on this alabaster island of volcanic moonscapes — all while keeping the crowds of other Greek Isles at bay. Nature, myth and history converge as you explore how the island's geological deposits afforded considerable fortunes, while the great tidal wave of 1650 BC wiped them away. Or, embark on an epicurean tour of

KALAMATA

LEGENDS OF THE PELOPONNESE

While Kalamata's olives are renowned the world over, the city itself continues to fly under tourists' radar despite its sprawling beaches, delightful seafront promenades and wealth of ancient history just a stone's throw away. Delve into the city's namesake export with a curated tasting of some of the world's finest olive oils and tapenades. Or, journey through the fertile plains of the Peloponnese to explore Messini, one of Greece's most intact ancient cities. Carved into the slopes of Mount Ithomi, this fortified enclave was once the envy of the Spartans. For yet another option, visit the former Turkish stronghold of Niokastro Castle and the legendary bastion of Methoni, a site also known as the ancient city of Pedasus. Some believe Methoni also has ties to Ampeloessa, one of the seven towns offered by Agamemnon to appease Achilles in Homer's epic poem, the Iliad. Meals: B L D

CORFU

GREECE'S EMERALD ISLE

Even among the beautiful and scenic Greek isles, Corfu stands out for its lush greenery as well as its charmingly winding streets and whitewashed houses. Head ashore to explore the Old Town's Esplanade, Town Hall and the Church of Saint Spyridon. Pair your Old Town Tour with an exploration of artifacts excavated from the ancient ruins of Paleopolis or a culinary deep dive into local favorites such as souvlaki, olives, ouzo and a distinctive kumquat liqueur. Alternatively, hike Mount Pantokratoras (3,018 feet), pausing to explore the villages of Spartilas, Strinilas and Old Peritheia, quintessential examples of Corfu's traditional mountain enclaves. Meals: B L D

KOTOR, MONTENEGRO

MEDIEVAL MARITIME BASTION

Flanked by fjords and mountainous ridges on a picturesque Dalmatian bay, Kotor enjoys a rich medieval maritime and trade legacy survived by its remarkably preserved houses, palaces and churches. Begin with an exploration of Kotor's historic Roman buildings and a local cathedral dating to 1166. Afterward, opt for a boat excursion to the Baroque jewel of Perast and Our Lady of the Rocks Church — home to Tripo Kokolja's 33-foot masterwork Death of the Virgin. Or, cruise to the charming coastal village of Prcanj for a Montenegrin-themed cooking class at the historic St. Nikola Monastery. A visit to the renowned at Storia di Pietra winery is also on offer. Meals: B L D

DUBROVNIK, CROATIA

YOUR GAME OF THRONES CAMEO

The sleeping beauty of the Mediterranean, Dubrovnik has been plundered so many times over its 700-year-history that its Old Town was once unrecognizable. Today, it has been restored to its red-roofed, ocean-lapped former glory and listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, making its car-free streets an irresistible setting for the location scouts who worked on Game of Thrones. With so much to see and experience, there are a variety of options for spending your day here. Explore the Dominican Monastery and Cathedral, the Sponza Palace, the Rector's Palace and Onofriou's Fountain. Linger in the Old Town for a foodie tour or journey into the countryside for a winery visit and lunch at a local farm. Alternatively, sample the region's fresh mussels, oysters and olive oil on a culinary excursion to the village of Orasac and the city of Ston. Meals: B L D

The Finest Galápagos Expeditions on the Water, Bar None

When Charles Darwin stepped foot on the Galápagos Islands some 200 years ago, he was awestruck by a diversity of strange and wondrous species yet unknown to science. Today, Ecoventura Expedition Cruises recapture this thrill of discovery in a style beyond anything Darwin could have imagined.

WILD ENCOUNTERS EVERYWHERE YOU LOOK

A&K's Expedition Team reveals the islands' wild wonders with a host of snorkeling, kayak, Zodiac and shore excursions accompanied by enriching onboard programming. From hiking Prince Philip's Steps to swimming with playful sea lions in Darwin Bay, each day of discovery is its own adventure.

WELCOME ABOARD YOUR FLOATING FIVE-STAR HOTEL

The only way to explore the Galápagos is by boat, and ours are unmatched. Our three Ecoventura adventure yachts — Origin, Theory and Evolve — are the region's only member vessels of the esteemed Relais & Châteaux collection. Each accommodates 20 guests and a crew of 13, affording one of the most intimate cruising experiences in the Galápagos. Shared spaces include dining rooms, libraries, cocktail bars, living rooms and breezy sun decks with spa pools and daybeds. Small enough to access tucked-away places larger ships can't, our yachts anchor in deserted bays off islands inhabited only by wildlife. Most importantly, our fleet is extra-efficient, eco-friendly and deeply invested in local conservation.

"This 20-person yacht cruise is the best way to see the Galápagos Islands — without disturbing the animals."

EVOLUTION

By Sarah Marshall

As visitors to the Galápagos Islands increasingly opt for land stays, Sarah Marshall sails against the tide of overtourism on an A&K Expedition Cruise. Her home is the sleek, state-of-the-art adventure yacht Evolve — offering a luxurious but responsible way to get up close to the wildlife

A lava lizard races across the barren slopes of Bartolomé, one of the "youngest" islands in the Galápagos archipelago, scampering so fast that its feet barely touch the ground. By mid-morning the carpet of ash, heated by the sun, has already reached near-molten temperatures.

So small that clouds simply pass over it, this volcanic outcrop of craters and cones rising from the Pacific Ocean receives less than 0.25 inches of rainfall per year. "The only things living here are the rocks," says nature guide Antonio Adrian, with a grin, as he leads us along a raised platform. "Stick around long enough and you will see them walk towards the ocean."

On closer inspection, there are many signs of life: tiny insects seeking shade and safety beneath scalesia shrubs; clever cacti thriving on nutrients extracted from the volcanic dust. Finding ingenious ways to survive in difficult conditions is central to life on the Galápagos Islands. Igniting Charles Darwin's interest when he first sailed here in 1835, this ever-evolving archipelago of wild wonders continues to amaze visitors today. In 2022, almost 268,000 tourists visited the archipelago, according to data released by the Galápagos National Park, rising from 204,295 in 2015. And the biggest leap — an estimated rise of 80% — has been the number of tourists staying on land, in accommodation available on just four inhabited islands.

Although measures have been put in place to curb overtourism, pressure on the Unesco World Heritage Site is undoubtedly increasing. So, with more and more travellers expected in the years to come, it is not just animals that have to find new ways of navigating the archipelago.

Bucking the trend for land stays, I chose to travel on the expedition yacht Evolve. One of 76 vessels permitted to operate multi-day trips in the Galápagos, it is the newest addition to the Ecoventura fleet acquired by Abercrombie & Kent in 2022. Also affiliated to the Relais & Châteaux portfolio, it is — along with sister ships Theory and Origin — one of the most sustainable luxury yachts in the region.

On board, en suite bedrooms have floor-to-ceiling windows perfect for viewing sea lions frolicking in the water. On the top deck, a barman mixes sunset cocktails while, in the dining area below, gastronomic four-course meals are prepared with ecological goals in mind. At least 50 percent of the ingredients are sourced locally.

Beyond the swish interiors, however, what sets Evolve apart from other ships is privileged access. No more than 10 guests are ever assigned to one naturalist-guide (a figure much lower than the national park's recommendation of 16:1) and the itineraries feature some of the best landing spots in the Galápagos Islands. Operating since 1991, Ecoventura secured permits for top sites and timeslots years ago, long before many other vessels appeared.

My seven-night tour of the southern and central islands began in San Cristóbal, following a two-hour flight from Guayaquil on the Ecuadorian mainland. One of three inhabited islands in the archipelago, it has a busy harbor lined with restaurants where I first witnessed the extraordinary ease with which humans and animals have learned to live side-by-side. Marine iguanas clung to brick walls, sea lions lazed on park benches, and hopeful pelicans hovered above fishermen unloading their hauls.

Before setting sail, we had crossed the highlands to reach a breeding center for giant tortoises. In low-lying clouds and thick mist, the landscape almost vanished — revealing why 16th-century sailors named these the Enchanted Islands. At that time, an estimated half a million tortoises roamed the volcanic outcrops, each population specially adapted to its surroundings. After years of hunting, however, only about 10,000 remained by the time a national park was created in 1959. Seventy years on, that number has risen by 50% due to conservation efforts.

"The project on San Cristóbal has been so successful they have decided to stop breeding tortoises in captivity on this particular island," says nature guide Sophia Darquea, as we watch one of the final batches of thumb-sized babies cluster together in pens. Irrespective of human intervention, life in the Galápagos Islands is thriving. Walking through a forest of native scalesia trees, I tune in to a symphony of birdsong: yellow warblers practice pieces unique to the island, while small ground finches sing their hearts out to serenade their mate. Equally enthralled, a curious San Cristóbal mockingbird chick almost perches on my shoulder — a reminder of how intimate wildlife encounters can be in these islands.

In any month of the year, something will be happening in the archipelago. I had specifically timed my visit to coincide with one of the avian world's greatest spectacles. From mid-April onwards, waved albatrosses gather on Española — the southernmost island — to perform a repertoire of extraordinary courtship displays.

Sailing overnight, we arrived to find the black basalt cliffs of Suarez Point painted gold by the morning sun. All Ecoventura landings are timed to avoid crossing paths with other ships, meaning only 20 of us go ashore. With so few people, the sense of discovery is amplified: waves crash louder; the air tastes saltier; the scarlet shells of Sally Lightfoot crabs beam brighter on white-sand shores.

"Look at that swagger," gasps Antonio, when we catch sight of our first albatross. Bowing his head from side to side, a male is searching for his mate, engaging in a series of balletic bill-clattering dances to see whether she is "the one." Struck by Cupid's arrow, the lovers are oblivious to our presence — even though we are sitting only a few yards away. Above us, doves and mockingbirds mob a predatory Galápagos hawk. On the horizon, blue-footed boobies stomp proudly, like schoolchildren showing off their shiny new shoes. "I always thought birds were a bit boring," admits one member of our group in a hushed whisper, "but I have never seen anything like this before."

Both land and sky serve as an arena for impressive displays, but what lies below the ocean is equally entertaining. Almost every day of our journey, there is an opportunity to go snorkeling. All different in terms of terrain and species, each location is a merry go-round of colorful activity: parrot fish dock at cleaning stations for spa treatments, puffer fish snack on sand dollars, and penguins fire past so fast, in a monochrome blur, that I almost miss them.

Taunting us with acrobatic displays, agile sea lions rouse whoops of applause from young children, and when a pod of 30 bottlenose dolphins approaches, even seasoned Galápagos-goer Sophia can't disguise her squeals. "Of course, our marine area is vulnerable and we have problems," she later tells me back on the ship, listing illegal fishing, pollution, invasive species and climate change as threats. "However, we are dealing with it." Millions of pounds have been spent removing goats and rats from the islands and, in January 2022, the marine protected area surrounding the islands was extended to the maritime border with Costa Rica.

On Santa Cruz, the most developed of the islands, I am reminded once again of how closely animals and humans have learned to depend on one another. In exchange for protecting the environment and building fences high enough to allow tortoises to pass underneath, several farmers have been given the right by the authorities to charge visitors for access to their land.

Walking through one of the farms, I find tortoises mud bathing, mating and feasting on fallen passion fruits. All around me, birds are singing from branches draped in healthy lichens.

In that moment, any problems and concerns dominating the headlines feel very distant. After all, as Charles Darwin wrote in his field notes: "The natural history of this archipelago is very remarkable: it seems to be a little world within itself."
