The Gift of Shared Travel

Like many families, we spent years surrounded by the activity of everyday life. There were kids to raise, a business to grow, games to attend, friends to gather with, family celebrations to enjoy, and always a few surprises along the way.

The calendar was full, the house was lively, and life seemed to move faster every year.

Now our kids have graduated from college, started careers, and begun building lives of their own. Time together has become more precious, and getting everyone in the same place at the same time isn't nearly as easy as it once was.

What we've discovered is that some of our most meaningful moments happen when we're traveling together. Not because of where we go, but because of how we spend our time when we get there.

Nobody is worrying about grocery lists, making dinner, cleaning up afterward, or deciding what comes next. Nobody is carrying the burden of planning. Instead, we simply get to enjoy one another's company.

We walk together. Share meals together. Laugh together. Meet remarkable people together. And somewhere along the way, we reconnect.

We've found the same thing to be true with friends. A walk through a village, a conversation over dinner, or a shared view at the end of the day somehow creates space for deeper connections. We listen more closely. Tell better stories. Learn things about people we've known for years.

After more than three decades creating journeys around the world, we've come to believe that the greatest gift of travel isn't checking destinations off a list. It's sharing meaningful experiences with people you care about. The places matter. The walks matter. The guides matter. But the memories that stay with us longest are often the ones we create together.

Whether you're traveling with family, friends, a spouse, or joining us on your own and meeting fellow travelers along the way, we hope you'll find those moments of connection on the pages ahead. We'd be honored to share them with you.

Warmly,

Edward + Susie

The Classic Journeys Difference

Walk into extraordinary

As a traveler—and not just a tourist—you crave meaningful connections that take you beyond the initial façade of the places you visit. Through our lifelong relationships with exceptional local guides, we introduce you to remarkable people and experiences most travelers never encounter—artisans, winemakers, hoteliers, restaurateurs, naturalists, historians, and local hosts whose perspectives deepen your understanding of a place. Together, we create Cultural Walking Adventures that immerse you in the world on foot and at eye level. Our trips live in the overlap between walking and cultural access—carefully curated walks that lead to a richer understanding of local culture, genuine connections with the people who call a destination home, and experiences that simply can't be replicated on your own.

For more than 30 years, Classic Journeys has helped travelers experience the world through these relationships, opening doors that remain closed to most visitors. It's this commitment to authentic access and meaningful connection that has earned Classic Journeys multiple World's Best Tour Operator awards from Travel + Leisure, whose editors praised us for providing "unbeatable access to experiences around the globe." Every Classic Journeys trip is built around these essentials.

- WALKS THAT LEAD TO EXTRAORDINARY EXPERIENCES
- EXCEPTIONAL LOCAL GUIDES
- SMALL GROUPS WITH PRIVILEGED ACCESS
- ENCHANTING ACCOMMODATIONS
- EATING LIKE (& WITH) THE LOCALS

“ Forbes Magazine

Luxury Walking Favorites

Forbes has recognized Classic Journeys among its Luxury Walking Favorites, celebrating a style of travel that combines active exploration with extraordinary cultural access.

Every great walk leads somewhere extraordinary. Wander through Uji's emerald tea fields with a local tea master, where generations of tradition and craftsmanship are shared by those who know it best. Japan (Pages 72-73)

Walks that Lead to Extraordinary Experiences

Explore on foot. Discover what most travelers never will.

Some companies focus on the walks.

Others focus on the destination.

Classic Journeys is where those worlds come together.

Every Cultural Walking Adventure is designed around thoughtfully curated walks that lead to the people, places, and experiences that reveal the true character of a destination. The walk isn't simply about covering miles. It's how we immerse you in the culture.

Instead of arriving at a winery by vehicle, you'll stroll through the vineyard alongside the winemaker whose family has farmed the same land for generations. A trail through the countryside ends with access to prehistoric cave paintings on a private estate closed to the public. A sunrise walk leads across Salsbury plain to a privately guided visit at Stonehenge.

These aren't experiences you'll find in a guidebook or stumble upon on your own. They're made possible through decades of local friendships and exceptional guides who know not only the most scenic paths to follow, but also the remarkable people and places waiting at the end of them.

Guided by Insiders

Local expertise. Lifelong connections.

The difference between seeing a destination and truly knowing it often comes down to one person: your guide. Every Classic Journeys trip is led by exceptional local guides whose friendships, knowledge, and lifelong connections open doors that simply don't open for most travelers. They aren't visitors to the region. This is their home.

Many tour operators fly guides in from elsewhere. Classic Journeys is different. Our guides live the culture they share with you every day. They know the shopkeepers, the monks in the monastery, the farmers in the fields, and the families behind the wineries, workshops, and traditions that define a place.

Your guide might be the grandson of a former president, a former fashion model who traded Milan runways for the footpaths of the Cinque Terre, a naturalist who spots wildlife others walk right past, or an acclaimed chef introducing you to favorite vendors in a Spanish market before teaching you the secrets behind a perfect paella. These relationships create conversations, introductions, and experiences that aren't available to most visitors.

Ask our guests what they remember most, and you'll often hear the same answer: The guides.

Because long after you've returned home, it's often the people you met and the connections you made that stay with you most.

Some places reveal themselves all at once. Puglia isn't one of them.

The real magic lives behind weathered wooden doors, around family tables, and down quiet lanes where every stone has a story. That's why Classic Journeys guides are more than experts—they're trusted friends, neighbors, and lifelong ambassadors of the places they call home. They know why the trulli of Alberobello were built to outwit the tax collector centuries ago, the artisan whose family has shaped limestone for generations, and which olive-growing family welcomes you beneath ancient trees to taste the oils they've been pressing for generations.

These aren't appointments on an itinerary. They're friendships, nurtured over years, that open doors most travelers never know exist. By the time you leave Puglia, you'll take home more than beautiful photographs. You'll carry the stories, laughter, and genuine connections that make a place—and its people—impossible to forget.
Puglia (Page 26)

In Iceland, small groups mean iconic settings like a turf house are not just a photo op. They're the opportunity to gather around your local guide for stories that deepen your connection to the land, the people and the mythology. Iceland (Pages 52-53)

Small Groups, Better Access.

More personal. More meaningful. More memorable.

With an average of just 10–12 guests and limited to 14 to 18 (depending on the tour), Classic Journeys creates experiences that simply aren't possible with larger groups. Smaller groups make it possible to spend more time with your guides, engage more meaningfully with local people, and enjoy access to places that welcome a handful of guests but not a crowd. It means conversations that aren't rushed, questions that don't go unanswered, and experiences that feel personal rather than programmed. Our remarkably intimate 6:1 guest-to-guide ratio means you'll enjoy a level of attention, access, and connection that is increasingly rare in travel today.

Just as importantly, you'll share your journey with fellow travelers who are as curious, engaged, and enthusiastic about discovering the world as you are. Many guests arrive knowing no one. By the end of the trip, they've discovered unexpected connections: a mutual friend, a familiar alma mater, a shared passion, or similar life experiences. More often than not, it feels less like meeting strangers and more like finding your people.

An adventure she (and you) will remember for a lifetime. Galápagos (Pages 56-57)

Who Travels With Us

COUPLES & FRIENDS

Travel with the people you enjoy most while sharing unforgettable experiences and discovering new places together.

SOLO TRAVELERS

About one-third of our guests travel solo. You'll never feel like the odd person out and will quickly find yourself among fellow travelers who share your curiosity and love of discovery.

FAMILIES

Explore the world together through meaningful experiences that spark conversation, connection, and memories that last long after the vacation ends.

The temples of Angkor are even better when shared — with old friends and new ones collected along the way. Vietnam, Laos & Cambodia (Pages 74-75)

The first friend you meet in Peru might have four legs. The rest will be walking beside you. Peru (Pages 60-61)

Some travelers visit the Galápagos. Classic Journeys guests live there. Wake each morning in a perfectly sited boutique hotel, where sea lions greet you on the beach, birdsong fills the air, and the wildlife is never far away. Galápagos Islands (Pages 56-57)

Enchanting Accommodations

Where luxury & local mean you feel at home (if your home is, say, a villa or palazzo).

When you're planning a vacation, there's no easier way to compare your options than by looking at the hotels. With Classic Journeys, you'll win that contest every time. We spend years cultivating personal relationships with hoteliers. That means we're able to obtain rooms they won't make available to other companies. In some cases, boutique properties choose to work with us because our small groups are a natural fit for the intimate experience they want to preserve. In others, our longstanding relationships give us access to preferred rooms and availability that larger operators simply can't secure. Some nights, you'll stay in coveted 5-star properties that regularly appear in "World's Best" and "Top 100" rankings. Other nights, it's an utterly authentic Tuscan villa or a too-scenic-to-believe rainforest lodge.

The accommodations add to your explorations because of the way they reflect the style and hospitality of a region, as well as their enviable locations. If there's a hotel in the heart of a nature preserve, within view of the Taj Mahal, or clinging to the cliffs in Santorini, we've got it, so you can enjoy it. Additionally, you'll generally spend two or more nights in each location so you can settle in. Often, each room is unique. That means you won't end up in cookie-cutter rooms in our converted abbeys, Mediterranean villas, and medieval palaces.

Eat Like (& with) The Locals

Local flavors & time to savor the moments together.

Food is a foolproof way into the hearts, homes, and history of the places you'll visit. Thanks to the insider connections we develop and the small size of your group, you'll often find yourself experiencing culture through cuisine while sharing time with cheesemakers, fishermen, olive growers, vintners, truffle hunters, and other artisanal food experts. Our local friends will also invite you to make ceviche in the Galápagos, shop the spice market to season a lunch in Morocco, perfect your spring roll technique in Vietnam, or make crêpes with them seaside near the D-Day beaches.

On many trips, your guides arrange picnics so that you can—picture this—stretch out under an olive tree on the crest of a hill overlooking the sea to feast on the view and the cuisine. Dinner one night will be in the kind of neighborhood restaurants where they write the day's menu on a chalkboard. And then we'll switch it up another night to treat you to a lavish meal with one of the region's top chefs. And if the menu isn't in English? Your guide will translate, point you to favorite dishes, and pass on your compliments to the chef.

How much like the locals?

Roll up your sleeves and join a local family to make pizza with garden-fresh ingredients and generational recipes. See for yourself why culture through cuisine is one of the delicious benefits of traveling with Classic Journeys. Amalfi Coast & Capri (Pages 20-21)

Morocco

MARRAKESH, SAHARA & FÈS

Entering a desert encampment after a sunset camel ride, you see only the glowing Berber tents carpeted with kilims. Cumin-scented stew simmers over a campfire. And away from the native singers and the circle of light, the sky is simply amazing. Not until a morning breeze stirs your tent's flap do you see how stunning your desert setting is. Morocco is full of surprises. Colossal Saharan dunes. Cinematic footpaths that reveal cool cedar-forests where shepherds move their sheep and goats. Narrow gorges with ribbon-like oases where you walk the same footpaths as women in colorful clothing that matches the bougainvillea.

And the Kasbah? It's the word for fortress and a restored one from the Middle Ages is one of our hotels. The marvelous news is that Morocco also delivers everything you expect, including vivid, noisy markets, and a warm hospitality from a culture accustomed to the diversity of Berber, Arab, Jewish, African, and Mediterranean influences.

Tuscany & the Cinque Terre

CHIANTI, FLORENCE & SEASIDE VILLAGES

Drinking in the sunset and the Chianti at the villa of our friends—the count and countess—we decided Tuscany couldn't be improved upon. A staunch Tuscan, the count surprised us. "Then you've never walked the Cinque Terre." So, we went. They're not far, these five almost unreachable villages that grow out of rock along the Ligurian Sea. For centuries, the connecting footpath was their lifeline, but for us, it's the scenic route into a vibrant coastal culture. Beforehand, you'll spend three nights in the parts of Tuscany we love best... complete with hill-towns that rise out of silver-green olive groves and the sunny vineyards of Chianti. Capping it all, you'll skip the lines to see Michelangelo's David as part of a fascinating walk led by a Florentine friend. But in the end, will you prefer Tuscany or the Cinque Terre? The good news is that because this trip gives you both, you don't have to decide.

Only with Classic Journeys

- Walk cinematic footpaths to unforgettable encounters with locals, including a shepherdess for a cheese tasting, a marble artisan, a vineyard owner, and the best gelato maker in the world
- Travel with our exceptional Tuscan guides, who share their friendships and engaging anecdotes about the history and culture

Sicily

AGRIGENTO, TAORMINA & MT. ETNA

In more ways than one, Sicily is the ultimate Italy. Geographically, it's the southernmost province—warm, golden, and sprinkled with blindingly white Greek temples that are among the world's best preserved. And culturally, it's more like Italy as you'd have imagined it a hundred years ago. Farmers still get to market by donkey. Mt. Etna is active and is the backdrop to almost every view. Even the bread is rougher and crustier—better to match vibrant food unlike any other you'll find in Italy. Get ready to embark on a remarkably scenic walking tour that captures the spirit of Sicily. There's the rock-clinging seaside beauty of Taormina. From beautifully sited lodgings, you'll set out on walks among the temples of Agrigento and immerse yourself in ancient archeology. And get ready for several 'only with Classic Journeys' experiences with olive oil makers, winemakers in their vineyards and other artisans. After all, "To have seen Italy without seeing Sicily is not to have seen Italy at all."

Only with Classic Journeys

- Walk the most breathtaking footpaths of Mt. Etna and savor exquisite wines from a unique volcanic terroir
- Awake in award-winning hotels, including a 5-star boutique hotel overlooking the Valley of the Temples in Agrigento

Sardinia & Corsica

RUSTIC VILLAGES & COSTA SMERALDA

When was the last time you broke bread with a shepherd? Perhaps at a stone table in his garden, a Sardinian breeze rustling the leaves, as you sampled homemade specialties and local wine. It's a simple yet unforgettable experience, and just one of many you'll enjoy on this remarkable Mediterranean adventure.

Travel between Sardinia and Corsica and you'll cross only eight miles of water, yet discover two very different worlds. Corsica—part of France, but proudly Corsican—is dotted with hilltop villages and fragrant hillsides. Sardinia is more rugged and mysterious, shaped by centuries of Phoenician, Spanish, and Italian influence. Together, these beautiful islands remain among the least-visited corners of the Mediterranean. Basque Pyrénées

SAN SEBASTIÁN, BILBAO & THE CAMINO DE SANTIAGO

A museum sheathed in titanium. Wild horses that eat baguettes. Villages with names in three languages—Basque, French and Spanish. Every time we venture onto the gentle western slopes of the Pyrénées on our tours of Spain and France, the richness of Europe's oldest culture surprises us again. Farmers on tractors yield the right of way to fierce but friendly pelota games in village squares. Garlands of brilliant red pimientos dry in the sunlight...then show up on a dinner plate stuffed with seafood. This region may well have more festival and market days per person than anywhere else in Europe, and we're always happy to change plans and join in. As this Classic Journey moves between France and Spain, we go from the scenic green meadows of the Jaizquibel to medieval market towns to the dramatic Guggenheim museum you've heard so much about. The Basques have a deep affection for Americans and you'll experience it time and again as you go exploring with our local Basque guide.

Only with Classic Journeys

Cotswolds

ENGLAND'S COUNTRYSIDE VILLAGES, GARDENS & STONEHENGE

Sometimes, Stonehenge steams at dawn. We know because on our tours we've stood there among the great pillars—no crowds, no ropes to hold us back—and felt the sun stream across Salisbury Plain to touch our faces at the same moment it starts to warm the night-cooled sandstone. It is a simple, awesome, hold-your-breath moment. And you'll experience it yourself on this amazing journey through Southwestern England. Beforehand, we spend several days in the parts of the Cotswolds we love best. We'll show you our favorite paths that crook through Technicolor cottage gardens, across sweeping meadows and into the loveliest honeyed-stone villages in the land. Bake traditional scones with a local friend, then enjoy them fresh from the oven. This isn't just the superficially pretty England, it's the real thing—a rich cultural experience with personal introductions and remarkable access to non-public places. You'll simply never forget it.

Costa Rica

ARENAL VOLCANO & THE OSA PENINSULA

Picture yourself on a rainforest trail as howler monkeys call overhead, Scarlet Macaws flash through the canopy, and a sloth blinks at you from its favorite tree. In Costa Rica—where a quarter of the land is protected—our native naturalist guides grew up in and around these reserves, so they know where the wildlife lives and care for these places as home. Your walks with them lead not only to waterfalls, hanging bridges, and pristine primary rainforest, but also to the ticos who share this world every day: coffee growers, cacao farmers, schoolteachers, and conservationists. And because Costa Rica's two oceans, central mountains, volcanoes, and many parks can be surprisingly hard to connect on your own, we use short charter flights to link Arenal's highlands with the remote Osa Peninsula—trading long drives for scenic flightseeing and more time where it matters most: on the trails, in the hot springs, and out watching wildlife.

Only with Classic Journeys

- Walk cloud-forest bridges, volcanic lava fields, and coastal rainforest trails with native tico naturalists who've spent their lives on these paths
- Short charter flights are transformed into flightseeing adventures—tracing volcanoes, rivers, rainforest canopy, and whale-rich coastline
- Meet ticos who bring this landscape to life, from village schoolteachers to the family hosting your farm visit, where you stroll orchards and cacao groves and taste coffee and chocolate at the source

ITINERARY & WALKING HIGHLIGHTS

DAYS 1-2

Begin your journey at a historic coffee-plantation hacienda, where walks through the working farm reveal coffee's journey from cherry to cup • Follow rainforest trails to five waterfalls tumbling through a tropical canyon • Step into a living kaleidoscope at a butterfly and hummingbird garden • Unwind in natural hot springs at the base of Arenal Volcano

DAYS 3-4

Choose your canopy adventure: cross hanging bridges or soar by zipline, spotting monkeys and birds • Hike across Arenal's cooled lava fields as your guide points out pioneering plants and shares the landscape's rebirth • Visit a village school to join games or English practice and glimpse daily life in the countryside • Enjoy a flightseeing panorama as you fly south, tracing rivers and rainforest to land on the Osa Peninsula—National Geographic's "most biologically intense place on Earth"

DAYS 5-7

Follow a rainforest trail to Golfo Dulce, then cruise its waters for whales (in season), dolphins, sea turtles, and optional snorkeling • Visit a family-run farm to explore cacao groves, discover medicinal plants, and craft chocolate from bean to bar • Explore Rio Nuevo Nature Reserve on guided rainforest walks, spotting Scarlet Macaws and Costa Rica's four monkey species before a riverside swim • When conditions allow, help release baby sea turtles or join an early bird walk for Scarlet Macaws and other colorful species

Vineyards knit mild valleys into a neat green patchwork. Sharp spikes of snow-capped rock bite into the sky. At least that's what your photos will say. Many travelers plan tours in Chile just to experience the awesome variety of nature. But we also bring you into the fascinating array of local cultures strung the length of the country. We meet the urbanites of Santiago, experts in the Maipo Valley vineyards, the hardy islanders of Chiloé and, of course, the gauchos who ride the pampas. North to south, mountaintop to seashore, you'll get a carefully curated up-close look at this vast and varied country.

Vietnam, Laos & Cambodia

HALONG BAY, ANGKOR WAT & THE BEST OF SOUTHEAST ASIA

Most tourists never see Halong Bay in the morning. They miss the fishing junks sliding past limestone spires that thrust from the turquoise water. They can't imagine how the scent of fresh coffee hangs in the air as eagles float overhead. It's an extravagant sensory moment possible only because we spend the night on the water... on a luxury junk. And it's just one unique event we'll share with you in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. Of course we visit the great cities of Indochina. But we also stop at the simple homestead of a rice farmer... meet the enormous residents of a Laotian elephant preserve... wander the temples of Angkor with an expert guide...and stay in Indochina's finest hotels and resorts. Along the way, you'll wind your way through exotic markets, eat truly remarkable local specialties, and experience the traditional cultures you only find if you approach the region like a traveler, rather than a tourist.

Only with Classic Journeys

- Base two days and a night of exploring Halong Bay from a luxury junk boat and learn to make spring rolls in a cooking instruction
- Enter Angkor Wat through a gate known only to the locals as part of a fascinating walking tour of the world's largest temple complex
- Walk ancient footpaths, visit with locals in countryside and villages, and gain a deep immersion into the history, culture, and people of three iconic countries in one carefully curated itinerary

DAYS 1-3

Dive into Hanoi's Old Quarter with your expert guide, weaving through temples, markets, and ancient bridges • Wander rice paddies and village paths, sharing stories over lunch in a 300-year-old home • Sail Halong Bay on a boutique junk, kayak to hidden coves, and master Vietnamese cooking at sunset

DAYS 4-6

Greet sunrise with tai chi on the water, explore limestone caves, and meet villagers for tea • Stroll lantern-lit Hoi An, visiting its lively morning market before a countryside cooking class • Explore the ruins at My Son, then fly to Cambodia for poolside relaxation in Siem Reap

DAYS 7-10

Enter Angkor Wat at sunrise before the crowds. Walk between Ta Prohm's tree-rooted ruins and Bayon's enigmatic faces • Visit the "Citadel of Women" to weave palm leaves and sample coconut treats • In Luang Prabang, feed rescued elephants, browse the night market, and wake early to witness the monks' alms walk

New Zealand

CHRISTCHURCH, MT. COOK & QUEENSTOWN

Too often, New Zealand is experienced from behind the windshield of a rental car or through demanding hut-to-hut treks that leave little room to truly connect with the country itself. Classic Journeys offers something different: iconic walks paired with the relationships we've built across the South Island over decades. One day you're crossing swing bridges beneath Aoraki's glacier-carved peaks; the next, sharing wine with a Central Otago viticulturist, meeting station families in the high country, or joining a Māori host in Christchurch for an evening of food and storytelling. Along the way, you meet the people shaping modern New Zealand: conservationists, olive growers transforming old sheep stations, honey makers, vintners, farmers, and artisans whose lives are deeply tied to the landscapes around them. The result is not simply a tour of the South Island's famous scenery, but the feeling of having genuinely entered the country rather than merely passed through it.

Only with Classic Journeys

- Experience an exclusive Māori progressive dinner, rich in food, culture, and hospitality
- Go behind the scenes with New Zealand's artisans, meeting beekeepers, shepherds, and winemakers
- Discover New Zealand on foot, walking cinematic sections of the famed Routeburn and Hooker Valley Tracks

DAY 1-2

Walk clifftop coastal trails above Banks Peninsula with sea caves, Pacific headlands, and lighthouse views • Taste Māori and multicultural flavors on a walking food tour with a local Māori host sharing stories of culture, community, and contemporary life • Walk olive groves and vineyard terraces with the family who transformed a former sheep station into an organic Waipara Valley farm

DAYS 3-4

Visit a private high-country sheep station for sheep dogs, shearing, and sweeping Southern Alps views • Cruise among floating icebergs on Tasman Lake after an alpine walk beneath the glacier-carved peaks of Aoraki / Mt Cook National Park • Walk the iconic Hooker Valley Track across swinging suspension bridges beneath snow-capped Southern Alps peaks

DAYS 5-8

Explore the historic gold-rush town of Arrowtown, from miners' cottages to artisan-lined streets and galleries • Suit up beside the hives with local honey makers for a hands-on beekeeping experience and honey tasting near Queenstown • Hike a spectacular section of New Zealand's famed Routeburn Track through native beech forest and glacier-carved valleys • Walk the vines with a Central Otago viticulturist before a vineyard lunch and Pinot Noir tasting in Gibbston Valley

The Group Trip for People Who Hate Group Trips

As Independent-minded Gen-Xers and Baby Boomers take more guided trips, tour companies are trying to make the experiences feel less like group travel. Classic Journeys unveiled a "Choose Your Own Adventure" program that allows for greater personalization on group trips.

— Wall Street Journal

◀ Our person-to-person approach helps to sustain local people, their cultures, and their way of life. Among the most iconic images of Cuba (and one that draws Americans most) are the classic 1950's cars.

What sets the Classic Journeys experience apart from any other way to enjoy them is our relationship with our friends Julio and his wife Nadyalis, who own a private business that employs a dozen craftsmen and mechanics that restore the cars to their original glory. Julio has spoken before the U.S. Congress about entrepreneurship in Cuba. And that car in the photo with us and Julio? He ferried Michelle Obama to the opening of the U.S Embassy in it in 2016. Travel with Confidence

Depend On Us To Be With You Every Step Of The Way

HOW LOCAL ARE YOU?

How about 2nd century B.C. local? That's how far back Classic Journeys' guides in Morocco trace their Berber ancestry. That makes our guides in Iceland, who hail from 9th-century Vikings, or those in Italy who trace theirs to 15th-century Renaissance, seem like new arrivals, by comparison.

HOW DO YOU CHOOSE YOUR GUIDES?

We kiss a lot of frogs to find Prince or Princess Charming. That means investing time with them in the regions they call home. For every guide we choose, there are dozens who are not right. Call us for the story of the guide who showed up to scout a walking tour in southern France dressed head to toe in Chanel. On her resume alone, she would have been hired, and it would have been a disaster. A week later we found the perfect guide and she's been a part of the family for 20+ years.

ARE YOUR GUIDES FULL-TIME EMPLOYEES?

We have some incredible staff at Classic Journeys. Colleagues who have lived in Asia, opened hotels in Europe, and speak more languages fluently than have fingers to count. But do you want us to send a colleague from California to lead your trip in Croatia or Chile or Cambodia? Or do you want a native, like our colleague in Rome who is an art curator for Sotheby's, and takes off several weeks a year to guide for us, recharge her batteries, and share her passion for Italian culture?

HOW DO YOU SCOUT A TRIP?

We invest in people and relationships, so you get genuinely curated itineraries. We spend time with the owners of chateaux in France, lodges in Yellowstone, and rainforest eco-hotels in Costa Rica. We hike glaciers in Iceland to find the perfect otherworldly picnic spot. We dine in dozens of privately-owned Cuban paladars to find just the right ones, and even help fishermen in the Galápagos change careers so they use their knowledge to bring you to hidden snorkeling spots. We've found the "never again" so you experience the "must do".

HOW CAN I BE CONFIDENT YOU'LL DELIVER A TRIP OF A LIFETIME?

Real guests rate us 98.5% on Travel + Leisure. That happens when fanatical attention to detail combines with a hyper-local approach. Most companies ask for feedback post-tour. We call 100% of our guests on tour to make sure you're having a trip of a lifetime. And if you aren't, our team is empowered to act on your behalf—on tour—when it matters most to you.
