Days filled with wonder

Train day 1

DENVER — GLENWOOD SPRINGS, COLORADO

Embark on your Canyon Spirit journey from the picturesque Denver, Colorado.* Heading west, you'll be greeted by your first engineering marvel – the Big 10 Curve. As the train ascends, it will cross the Continental Divide through the Moffat Tunnel. Journey along the Colorado River, marveling at the colossal beauty of Byers and Gore canyons. Keep an eye out for wildlife as you pass through Glenwood Canyon, on the Upper Colorado River. Finish your day in Glenwood Springs, where you'll unwind overnight in a cozy hotel, included as part of your journey.

You can also choose to travel eastbound, journeying from Moab to Denver.

Train day 2

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, COLORADO — MOAB, UTAH

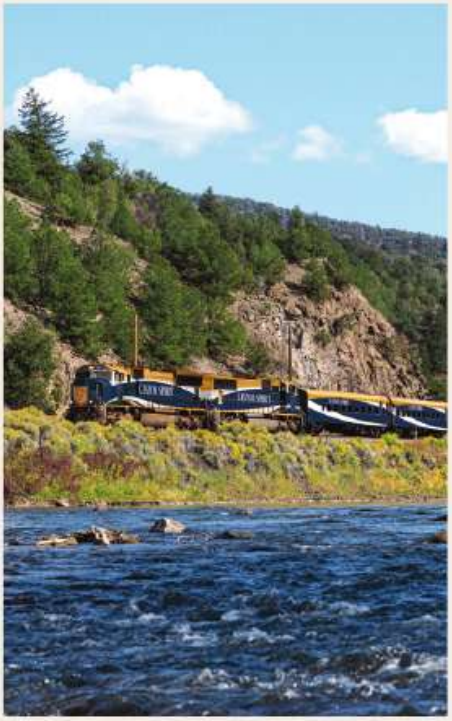

As you head southwest, you'll begin your day surrounded by mountain vistas and desert cliffs. Rugged landscapes lead to the striking 15-mile De Beque Canyon, renowned for its stair-step cliffs of sedimentary rock layers. Continuing west, you'll encounter Mount Garfield, the pinnacle of the Book Cliffs. Spanning 200 miles from east to west, these sandstone cliffs and mountains mark your transition from Colorado to Utah. Striking red rock formations signal your approach to Moab, the gateway to Utah's Mighty 5 National Parks.

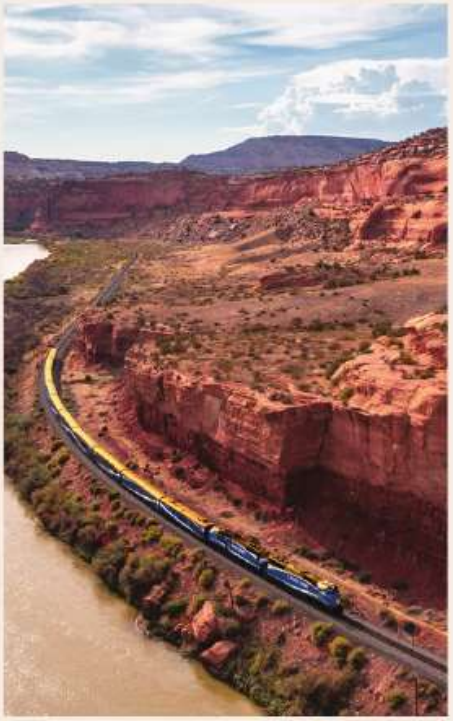

Train day 3 option

MOAB, UTAH — SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

If you choose our three-day route, your adventure extends beyond Moab with an unforgettable journey to Salt Lake City*. After a restful night in Moab, wake up to a morning of exploration at your own pace – whether it's soaking in the desert sunrise or discovering the town's hidden gems. Once onboard the train, journey past the last of the scenic Book Cliffs before winding through Castle Gate and ascending through the stunning Price Canyon, crossing the historic Soldier Summit via the Gilluly Loops. From Thistle Tunnel, travel through Red Canyon, taking in breathtaking views of the Wasatch Mountains before arriving in Salt Lake City via Spanish Fork.

You can also choose to travel eastbound, journeying from Salt Lake City to Denver.

Route highlights

MOFFAT TUNNEL

As part of your Canyon Spirit journey, you'll traverse the remarkable Moffat Tunnel, an engineering marvel stretching six miles. Here, the train crosses the Continental Divide, the spine of the Rockies that divides the watersheds flowing west to the Pacific Ocean and east to the Atlantic Ocean. Spanning 650 miles and crossing 21 counties, the Divide encompasses many of Colorado's highest peaks.

BURNS CANYON

Passing between the Flat Tops Wilderness on one side and Sawatch Range on the other, you'll encounter a remote gem. The red walls of Burns Canyon showcase the essence of Colorado's natural splendor, making it an ideal spot for photographs. Visitors during fall will be treated to a tapestry of orange and gold hues.

GLENWOOD CANYON

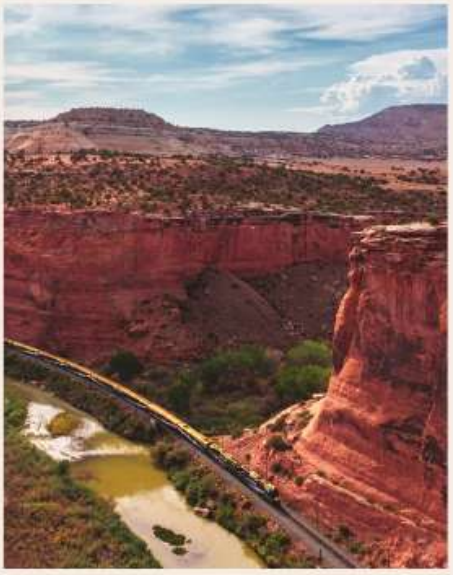

The largest canyon on the Upper Colorado River, Glenwood Canyon was sculpted by the Colorado River over three million years. This 16-mile marvel – famous to thrill-seekers for its rushing white water – features an intricate network of caves as well as 40 bridges and two 4,000-foot-long tunnels.

From vast canyons to soaring peaks, discover some of the route's most captivating highlights.

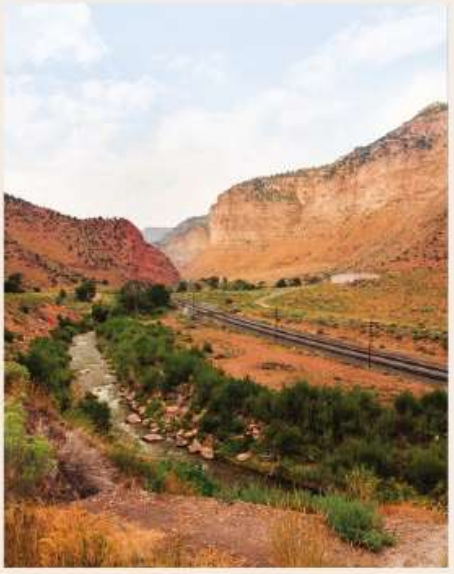

MOUNT GARFIELD

Rising to 6,800 feet, this peak is the highest point along the 200-mile-long Book Cliffs. Named for the 20th President of the United States, James Garfield, the peak is known for its remarkable undulating foothills and commanding presence over the landscape. Mount Garfield is one of the most breathtaking natural features in the region.

RUBY CANYON

Located within the McInnis Canyons National Conservation Area, this 15-mile canyon – named after its vibrant red sandstone walls – stretches along the Colorado River. While popular for river rafting, Ruby Canyon remains largely inaccessible to most visitors, making your journey through the heart of it all the more memorable.

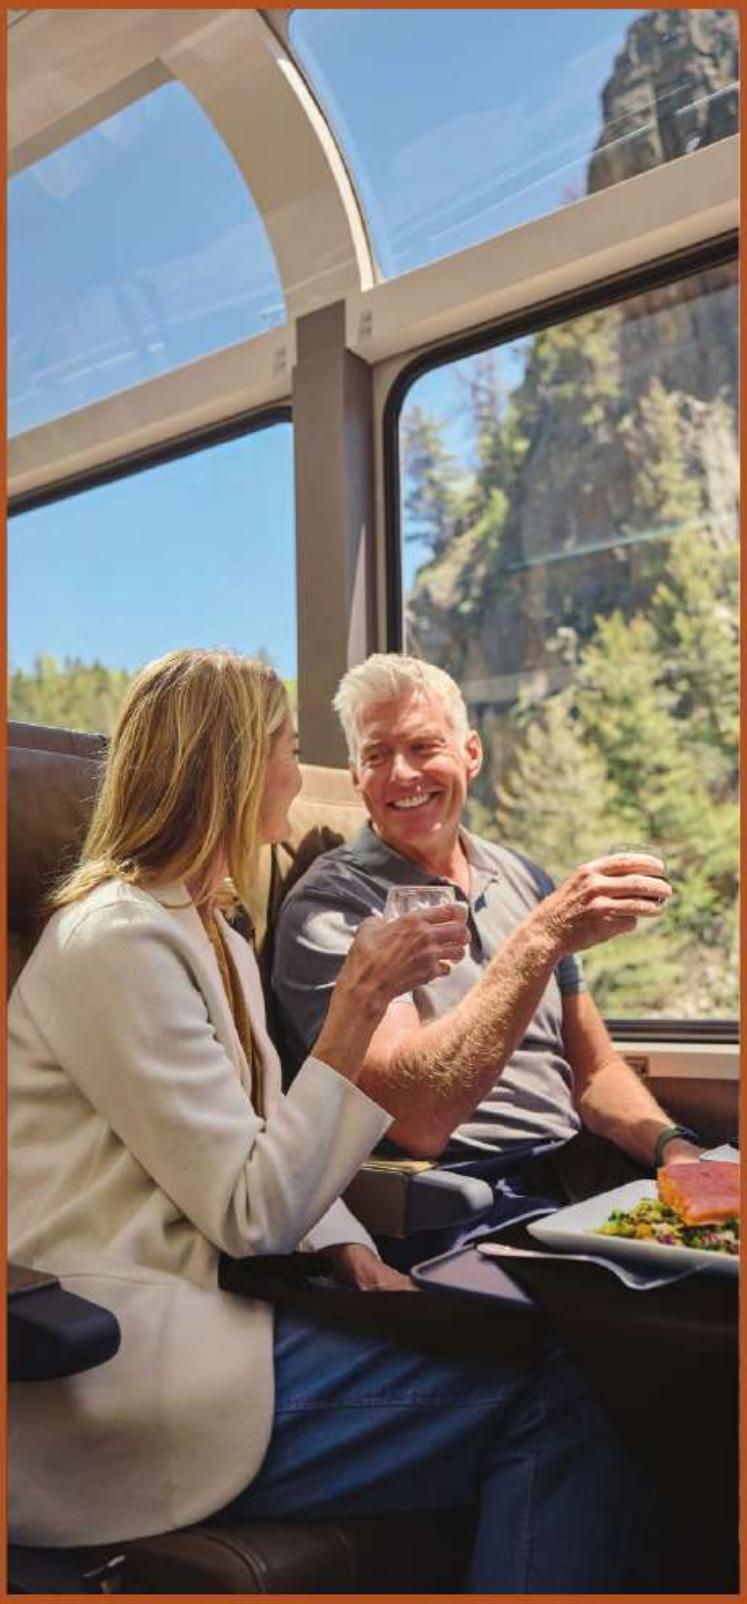

PRICE CANYON*

Carved by the Price River over millions of years, Price Canyon features towering sandstone cliffs, dramatic rock formations, and lush greenery, creating a visual masterpiece you won't want to miss. As Price Canyon forms the divide between the Book Cliffs and the dramatic Wasatch Mountains, it makes an incredible backdrop along the route.
