With United Airlines providing enhanced access from the U.S. to Adelaide starting in December 2025, now is the perfect time to start planning a South Australia getaway.

"To me, travel is one of life's greatest gifts—a way to connect, discover and be transformed by the world's diversity. As a true-blue Aussie, nothing brings me more joy than sharing my homeland with others. While my heart belongs to my native Queensland, I have to admit that South Australia, with its exceptional wine, interesting wildlife, tremendous rock formations and friendly people, is a favorite destination of mine.

When we founded Swain Destinations in 1987, our vision was to help curious travelers discover places that seemed inaccessible or unknown. Now, with increased airlift—including nonstop flights from the U.S. to Adelaide, Brisbane, Melbourne and Sydney—getting there is easy! Our expert travel consultants will handle the details, crafting a personalized itinerary to ensure your journey is both seamless and memorable."

Adelaide Hills

The Adelaide Hills serve as the gateway to South Australia's countryside, offering an idyllic balance of cosmopolitan city and rural serenity. Each season brings fresh reasons to explore—from fruit picking to admiring the colorful changing leaves, spotting playful joeys to savoring special tastings of newly released wines. It's a region where refined pleasures are interwoven with nature's bounty, like fresh local produce, stunning landscapes and endless opportunities for outdoor adventure.

Sequoia offers unparalleled luxury in South Australia. Perched on the side of Mount Lofty with sweeping panoramic views, this intimate retreat blends exquisite food and wine, immersive wellness experiences, sustainability and rich connections with nature.

Adelaide Hills is one of the oldest wine regions in Australia, with roots tracing back to the early 1800s. Due to the elevation in the Hills, elegant cool-climate varietals are accompanied by sweeping views of the surrounding valleys and vineyards.

Adelaide

The gateway to South Australia, Adelaide is a hub of culture, flavor, and entertainment. The city is blooming with parks and green spaces and, with more than 400 events held annually, proudly earns the title of Australia's Festival City. Time a visit to Adelaide to enjoy a celebration of the arts, music, culture, or food and wine. Or catch a game of cricket or footy at one of the most picturesque sporting grounds in the world, the Adelaide Oval.

Adelaide is also known for its luxury accommodations, wine, restaurant and bar scene, incredibly friendly people and —according to our very own Ian Swain— exceptional tour guides. Some of our favorite Adelaide tours include the Central Market, a city tour and wine touring.

Wildlife Abounds

Adelaide is surrounded by opportunities to connect with nature and wildlife! You can visit a wildlife park for unique encounters or simply spot the abundant wildlife in the nearby waterways, eucalyptus, fern gullies, forests and gorges.

Just 20 minutes from Adelaide, Cleland Wildlife Park is a natural bushland setting home to more than 130 native Australian species. Stroll the park among free roaming kangaroos, emus, wallabies, wombats, potoroos, koalas, dingoes, birds and even the elusive echidna.

Fleurieu Peninsula

The Fleurieu Peninsula is a place of world-class wine, pristine beaches, gourmet foodie experiences and abundant wildlife. Innovative restaurants, vibrant farmer's markets overflowing with regional produce and untouched stretches of bushland alive with iconic Australian wildlife vie for attention among big name wineries and unique cellar doors. With expert local knowledge and insider industry connections, enjoy a carefully curated food, wine and wildlife tour of this breathtaking region.

Flinders Ranges

One of the oldest mountain ranges in the world, the Flinders Ranges is a breathtaking expanse of steep cliffs and deep craters. Explore the dramatic beauty of the area from the air, on the road, or by foot—we recommend all three to fully appreciate the magnificence of this rugged landscape. A visit to the Opal Capital of the world, Coober Pedy, offers a unique look at Outback life and an opportunity to find an iridescent souvenir straight from its source. Panoramic views and star-filled night skies will leave you utterly mesmerized.

Arkaba

Nestled on a 60,000-acre former sheep station, the Arkaba Homestead offers a select few guests a taste of wild bush luxury. Here, you'll immerse yourself in an authentic Australian Outback experience. A private wildlife conservancy, guests have exclusive access to explore the ancient geology, diverse wildlife and pastoral heritage of the land.

Kangaroo Island

Kangaroo Island offers far more than its namesake marsupials. Diverse natural habitats support an astonishing array of wildlife, including sea lions, koalas, cockatoos, wallabies, penguins, enchidnas, platypuses, dolphins, whales and, yes, kangaroos. With more than 350 miles of unspoiled coastline, the island enchants visitors with pristine beaches, dramatic cliffs and striking geological wonders—none more iconic than the massive and unusual Remarkable Rocks.

Southern Ocean Lodge is a sanctuary of comfort and style, where contemporary luxury and thoughtful design opens onto endless views of the beautiful Southern Ocean. Ideally positioned within easy reach of Kangaroo Island's premier attractions yet blissfully secluded, the lodge offers a seamless blend of stunning scenery, personalized service, exceptional dining, and impeccable design —making it a true icon of South Australian luxury.

Seal Bay Conservation Park

Seal Bay Conservation Park offers an extraordinary opportunity to witness Australian sea lions lounging on pristine shores. Guests can stroll the beach alongside these graceful creatures, guided by expert naturalists with a passion for educating visitors about these fascinating pinnipeds and the importance of conserving the species. Set against a backdrop of incredible coastline and the majestic Southern Ocean, the experience is both intimate and unforgettable.
