EXPLORE WITH NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC-LINDBLAD EXPEDITIONS

BECAUSE HOW YOU SEE IT MATTERS

For more than 20 years, the unique collaboration between National Geographic and Lindblad Expeditions has defined modern expedition cruising, connecting travelers with transformative experiences that forge meaningful relationships between people and the planet. Every voyage blends the legendary exploration spirit of National Geographic with Lindblad Expeditions' unmatched 50+ years of expedition heritage.

SMALL SHIPS THAT TAKE YOU FARTHER

Exploring Iceland and Greenland aboard the National Geographic-Lindblad Expeditions fleet offers a deeper connection to these dramatic landscapes. From the deck of a nimble small ship, sail to remote fjords, iceberg-filled bays and volcanic shores, witnessing the natural forces that continue to shape these wild, storied regions.

TRAVEL WITH A WORLD-CLASS TEAM

Voyages are driven by passionate expedition teams—naturalists, photographers and cultural specialists who are explorers at heart. National Geographic Experts join select departures, offering unique perspectives and special access.

TAKE GREAT PHOTOS WITH THE PROS

National Geographic photographers have spent decades traveling the globe, capturing the world's most impactful images. They join every Icelandic expedition—along with a National Geographic-Lindblad Expeditions certified photo instructor—helping travelers hone their camera skills in captivating places.

EXPLORE YOUR WAY EVERY DAY

Itineraries feature a range of immersive activities that bring you into the pages of National Geographic magazine, from hiking volcanic craters to Zodiac cruising beneath basalt cliffs. Each expedition offers excursions for every skill level so that you can explore your way—and at your own pace—every day.

REVEALING UNDERSEA WONDERS

On most departures, an undersea specialist brings marine wonders to the surface by capturing underwater footage of the subarctic's surprisingly vibrant marine life. During Daily Recaps, the specialist interprets sea creatures and geological features, offering insights integral to the story of Iceland and Greenland.

EXPEDITIONS THAT GIVE BACK

Every voyage that sets sail contributes to the preservation of the planet through the Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic Fund. Your support helps conserve coastal communities and marine habitats—and it funds explorers from the National Geographic Society who are envisioning bold changes for a sustainable future.

FAR FROM THE CROWDS

ENCOUNTER ICELANDIC WONDERS BY SHIP

The dynamic landscapes of Iceland showcase the living Earth like nowhere else. In this land of geological treasures, the brightest gems are found in hidden corners and coves, where waterfalls flow through mossy canyons, glaciers tumble from mountaintops and fjords carve paths from the sea to timeless fishing villages.

There's no better way to experience authentic Iceland—far from the well-trodden Ring Road—than on an expedition cruise to the country's remote shores. Explore with National Geographic-Lindblad Expeditions and witness a seldom-seen side of this beloved country.

DISCOVER REMOTE ISLANDS AND SHORELINES

In recent decades, Iceland has become a tourism hotspot, and once-quiet areas of the island nation now draw people eager to see its churning volcanoes and bubbling geysers. Most land-based travelers zero in on popular destinations like the Blue Lagoon or Thingvellir National Park—places shared en masse across social media.

An expedition cruise is your passport to the parts of the country that are often overlooked. Exploring by sea allows you to cover more ground and reach remote corners that few will ever see. In secluded coves and rugged fjords, Zodiacs bring you into the wild without the need for existing infrastructure—and in a fraction of the time it would take for overland visitors.

LEARN FROM LOCAL EXPERTS AND LUMINARIES

Aboard small expedition ships, you'll enjoy plenty of face time with people at the top of their fields. Certified photo instructors help you capture nesting puffins and otherworldly sulfur cauldrons, and naturalists shed light on volcanism and whale migrations. Cultural specialists interpret the unique customs you'll come across, and many departures feature onboard performances from local artists who weave together music and stories, offering an in-depth look at rural Icelandic life.

BEYOND THE BLUE LAGOON

7 UNIQUE ICELANDIC EXPERIENCES

Exploring Iceland by small ship opens an entirely new realm of possibility, taking you to the far-flung corners of this enchanting subarctic isle. Go beyond the Blue Lagoon to glimpse Iceland's natural wonders in their wild glory and the daily rhythms of life that have remained much the same for generations.

LEARN THE HISTORY OF THE HERRING INDUSTRY

The Herring Era Museum in Siglufjörður showcases the fisheries that transformed this fjord-side town into a thriving city in the early 1900s. Witness the "herring girls" give a reenactment of fish processing, then take a taste of pickled herring.

HIKE A CRATER WHERE THE EARTH IS STILL HOT

Heimaey island has risen from the ashes of its infamous 1973 eruption. On a hike to the rim of Eldfell crater, pass pockets of steam that still rise from the earth, and see the "Pompeii of the North," where ash-preserved houses have been excavated.

WITNESS ICELAND'S REWILDING

Birch forests once covered up to 40 percent of Iceland, but the agriculture of 9th-century settlers led to deforestation. On a guided walk through young woodlands, learn how communities are reforesting their regions with native species.

WALK A CANYON STEEPED IN SAGA

According to Norse mythology, the u-shaped Ásbyrgi Canyon was formed by the hoof of Sleipnir, Odin's eight-legged horse. Other myths name Ásbyrgi as the capital of Iceland's "hidden people," the Huldufólk.

CROSS THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

The tiny isle of Grimsey is bisected by the Arctic Circle, and you can make a crossing on foot or at sea. Another attraction is the large puffin colony. More than 80,000 breeding pairs nest here between April and August.

DELVE INTO THE WORLD OF WHALES

The Husavik Whale Museum is one of the only museums in the world dedicated entirely to whales. Exhibits cover topics ranging from whale ecology to conservation, and include artful displays of 11 massive skeletons.

GLIMPSE TRADITIONAL EIDERDOWN FARMING

Vigur island is both a seabird sanctuary and the center of the ancient Icelandic tradition of eiderdown farming. A single family serves as the steward for the avian populations, and they walk you through the process of harvesting eiderdown.

All In

Activities and excursions are always included in the voyage price unless otherwise noted.

EXPLORATION FOR EVERY GENERATION

On our expeditions, travel is a shared adventure, where explorers of all ages connect over moments of discovery. Each voyage offers a range of activities, from rafting down a glacial river to strolling along boardwalks surrounded by nesting puffins. However you choose to explore, you will discover fascinating places as a family and bond over the memories of your expedition for years to come.

NURTURING YOUNG EXPLORERS

On Arctic Edges: Iceland Westfjords to East Greenland and Wild Arctic Shores: Circumnavigating Iceland and Exploring Greenland, kids and teens can participate in the National Geographic Explorers-in-Training program. Led by certified field educators, young travelers will learn to explore Iceland like scientists and tell the stories of their surroundings through photographs, videos, drawings and more.

EASY ACCESS TO ARCTIC WILDERNESS

The wilds of Iceland and Greenland are easier to access than ever before, with a host of nonstop flights to and from cities across the U.S., including New York, Washington, D.C., Denver, Seattle and many others. Fly from the eastern seaboard to our embarkation city of Reykjavík in just over five hours and find yourself in a world of shimmering glaciers, steaming geysers and epic landscapes that defy the imagination.

A DAY ON EXPEDITION IN ICELAND

Discover the centuries-old hamlets of ancient seafarers, hidden forests shrouded in lore, personality-packed puffin colonies and much more.

Breakfast: Feast Your Eyes on a Fjord

Iceland's rocky coast is carved with more than 100 fjords, many of them found along the country's remote western and eastern shores. After leaving Reykjavík, you'll wake up in a new one nearly every day—and they make the perfect backdrop for a fresh breakfast of made-to-order eggs, fresh pastries and oatmeal and yogurt parfaits with all the fixings.

Morning Excursion: Witness the Earth in Action

Amid Iceland's elemental landscapes, there are a multitude of ways to interact with the living Earth. On a morning excursion, you might walk along a fjord to a thundering waterfall, Zodiac cruise around basalt cliffs studded with seabirds or climb to the rim of a volcanic crater.

Downtime: Scenery at Sea

There's plenty to see from the ship, and while you're relaxing, you may hear your expedition leader call out notable landmarks over the loudspeaker. Among them are Surtsey—one of the world's youngest islands—and the monument on Grímsey island that marks the border of the Arctic Circle. Whales are also plentiful in these parts, and your captain may stop the ship to watch a pod of orcas or humpbacks.

Lunch Is Served

Select from a lunch menu of diverse options that can be tailored to your taste and dietary preferences. Many meals start with a robust soup to ward off the Icelandic chill.

Chat With the Captain

Attend a naturalist talk in the lounge or take advantage of the ship's amenities: read up on geology in the library, test out high-tech cameras from the complimentary OM System Photo Gear Locker or visit the open Bridge to chat with the captain about Arctic navigation. Young travelers in the National Geographic Explorers-in-Training program are invited to join their certified field educator in using the ship microscopes to examine plankton gathered on the morning Zodiac cruise.

Afternoon Excursion: Local Icelandic Life

Voyages offer a rare look at the age-old customs that thrive in the country's remote rural corners. Alongside local Icelanders, delve into traditions like eiderdown processing and herring fishing. Your expedition may also feature a special cultural expert—such as a professor or politician—who joins you throughout the journey to share insights into local Icelandic life.

More to Explore: Get the Perfect Puffin Photo

Several landing sites harbor puffins,* and when you spend time at the edge of their nesting cliffs, keeping as still as possible, they get used to your presence and flutter about their business. Post up alongside your National Geographic photographer and they'll show you how to adjust your shutter speed to get the perfect picture.

Ready for Recap

Meet in the lounge over drinks and hors d'oeuvres, and settle in for the Daily Recap, featuring presentations and slideshows on the day's adventures and a preview of tomorrow's activities.

Dinner and a Show

Nosh on Nordic cuisine at dinner, sampling a local fish sustainably caught and perfectly prepared by your ship's chef. This evening's entertainment features a local musician hand-selected by the fleet's ethnomusicologist, Jacob Edgar, who curates unique performances that incorporate traditional elements of Icelandic culture.

*Puffins can be seen in Iceland between mid-April and mid-August.

ICELAND AND GREENLAND

GATEWAY TO THE ARCTIC

Iceland and Greenland reveal two striking visions of the Arctic—one alive with volcanic energy, the other sculpted by ancient ice. On either of two remarkable expeditions, explore both lands in a single journey: kayak beneath towering glaciers, hike across lava fields and connect with remote communities shaped by seafaring traditions. With National Geographic–Lindblad Expeditions, you'll get an inside look at the far north—brought to life by our naturalists and cultural specialists, who provide expert insights at every turn.
